Community Champion Sponsorship 2023

Why we need the Port St. John Community Foundation?

Port St. John is unincorporated which means we are a community within Brevard County that is not governed by a local municipality. Being unincorporated, we are subject to county taxes and fees but services like waste management and emergency protection mostly come from county resources. We do not have city elected officials or city police protection. Our community is not eligible to receive a municipal share of revenue-sharing funds necessary to hold events specific to our community as other incorporated cities in Brevard County receive.

Through the years, it has been our churches, our school PTO and PTA groups, our youth sports groups and our volunteer organizations like the Jaycees, American Legion, Relay for Life, the original Thunder Over the Indian River group and the PSJ Christmas Parade Committee who have created and run the community events in Port St. John. The county does not fund any Port St John community event. We are left to our own resources to raise these funds. The BSCO has always been a great supporter of Port St. John and the county Parks and Recreation also partners and helps with many of our events.

The Port St. John Community Foundation is a non-profit organization formed to raise the necessary funds that if we would receive if incorporated. Founders and members participating and donating their time, money and services are volunteer. We encourage community support to guarantee keeping our unincorporated family community strong with the growth of Brevard County…Today, Tomorrow, Together.
